"Strange Fruit" is a song recorded by Billie Holiday in 1939, written by Abel Meeropol and published in 1937. It protests the lynching of Black Americans, with lyrics that compare the victims to the fruit of trees. Such lynchings had reached a peak in the Southern United States at the turn of the 20th century, and the great majority of victims were black. The song has been called "a declaration of war" and "the beginning of the civil rights movement". Meeropol set his lyrics to

"Strange Fruit." In 1939, at the height of the Jim Crow era, a 23-year-old blues singer did the unthinkable. She opened her set of the night at West 4th's Cafe Society in New York City, the first integrated night club in the United States, by singing what was to become the first song to denounce racial violence openly.

The poem Strange Fruit by Abel Meeropol, could be described as dark and graphic, as it embodies Southern violence in America. The poem describes the lynching of black slaves, which was generally presented to an audience of whites. Billie Holiday, a black female artist, would sing the poem to a predominantly upper-class white club.
