There are countless examples of rivers flowing northward. Some of the most famous are the world's longest river the Nile, along with Russia's Ob, Lena, and Yenisey Rivers. The Red River in the U.S. and Canada and Florida's St. Johns River also flow north. In fact, rivers that flow north can be found all around the world:

In the north and north west of Norfolk, the rivers Burn, Glaven, Mun and Stiffkey, all chalk-fed, flow into the Wash or directly into the North Sea. Why should we protect and restore our rivers? A well-functioning river system requires good water quality, distinctive physical processes, and a diverse array of fauna and flora.

Rivers. Trickling streams and peaceful rivers are a beautiful and important part of the character of the North York Moors.
They provide a habitat for nationally important species of wildlife, a water supply for people, and a scenic and relaxing part of the landscape for recreational activities. The waterways in the North York Moors have an amazing range of characters: small becks babbling over moorland, swollen torrents thundering through deep wooded gorges,

The River Trent is the third-longest river in the United Kingdom. Its source is in Staffordshire on the southern edge of Biddulph Moor. It flows through and drains most of the metropolitan central and northern Midlands south and east of its source north of Stoke-on-Trent. The river is known for dramatic flooding after storms and spring snowmelt, which in past times often caused the river to ...
